

Inaugural Forum on Concrete Pavements
by Queensland Branch of ASCP
Tuesday 5 October, 2010

ASCP is delighted to announce the formation of its Queensland Branch. Earlier this year a steering committee was formed to consider the establishment of a Queensland Branch and to holding of events in Brisbane.

This forum on 5 October will be the first event for the Queensland Branch. It will be of interest to all practitioners involved in concrete pavements, including designers, specifiers, contractors and sub contractors, and materials and service providers. The forum will include presentations on both concrete road pavements and industrial pavements. It will also provide delegates with an introduction to the role and activities of AGIC (Australian Green Infrastructure Council).

There will be ample opportunity for questions and discussion, as well as networking with industry colleagues on the conclusion of the presentations.

People wishing to attend, and who are not members of ASCP, may wish to take advantage of a membership offer which includes membership to the end of 2011 and registration for this forum. See over for details.
