AECOM integrates brands in Australia, New Zealand

From today, AECOM's Maunsell AECOM, Bassett, ENSR Australia and EDAW AECOM brands are coming together as part of a global integration that will see each brand adopt the AECOM name.

AECOM, a professional services firm, has more than 4,000 employees in Australia and New Zealand. AECOM is a Fortune 500 company with 43,000 employees in over 100 countries.

AECOM Regional Chief Executive for Australia and New Zealand Richard Jackson said the move to AECOM is a natural evolution providing one face to clients.

"It will make dealing with us simpler and provide our clients with easier access to our full range of services and expertise globally," said Jackson. "Integrating AECOM brands and operations brings together the resources and shared expertise needed to deliver world-leading projects both locally and globally."

AECOM people are designers, planners, engineers, economists, scientists and projects managers working on the world's most influential infrastructure to create a better world in which to work and live.

AECOM project involvement includes in Australia: Brisbane's North South Bypass Tunnel; the Australian Synchrotron, Olympic Dam Mine and Kunioon Coal Project; in New Zealand: the Otahuhu Power Station and Auckland Rail Electrification project; and worldwide: New York Subway, Libya Housing and Infrastructure Development, and London's Crossrail.
